Step 5 Follow your curriculum path

The screenshot shows the NativeAccent software interface. At the top, there is a blue header with the text "NativeAccent" on the left and "dd Student1" and a search bar on the right. Below the header, there are four progress indicators: "Pronunciation" (3 stars), "Grammar" (3 stars), "Word Stress" (5 stars), and "Fluency" (3 stars). The main area is titled "Intelligent Tutor Lessons" and contains a grid of lesson cards. The first card, "Fluency - P...", is highlighted in blue and has a "Start" button. Other cards include "Fluency - Pa...", "Verbs - Irreg...", "Verbs - Pass...", "U - should", "h - hat", "Pronouns - ...", and "Questions - ...". Each card has a number in a small box at the bottom. Below the grid, there are more lesson cards: "Questions - ...", "Fluency - Ra...", "Word Stress...", "y - yield", "i - eat", "t - team", "v - vent", and "ey - ape".

Step 6 Use feedback to improve

The screenshot shows a lesson page in the NativeAccent software. The header is blue and contains the text "Lesson :: w - way" and "Type: Pronunciation" with three stars. There is a "Save & Quit" button in the top right corner. Below the header, there is a "Suggestions" section with a list of four points:

1. The [w] is very close in articulation to an [u]
2. Lips are rounded and back of tongue is near, but not touching, soft part of top of mouth
3. Sides of tongue touch upper side teeth
4. This is shorter than the [u] and often is a movement toward a following vowel

To the right of the suggestions, there are two video thumbnails. The first is labeled "wish" and the second is labeled "awhile". Below the suggestions, the word "wife" is displayed with a red box highlighting the "w" sound.
